

What are the objectives of A.W.I.N.Z. ?

- To promote the welfare, control, protection and conservation of animals;
- To encourage and develop by humane education individual responsibility for the welfare, control, protection and conservation of animals, and the promotion of humane attitudes in society to people and animals;
- To provide animal welfare and veterinary services;
- To support the study of animal protection, control and welfare problems;
- To seek reform of laws for the welfare, protection, control and conservation of animals, and the promotion of humane attitudes in society to people and animals;
- To advance the aims of the Trust by seeking the support and advice of all available moral, educational, legislative and scientific institutions;
- To maintain effective liaison and to seek co-operation with organisations in New Zealand and elsewhere having similar objectives.

Can your business benefit from a partnership with A.W.I.N.Z.?

If your business relates to animals in any way then A.W.I.N.Z. may be able to assist you in developing a beneficial relationship.

Partnerships and direct business arrangements are of interest to A.W.I.N.Z.

Sponsorships are also of interest, however in the current climate A.W.I.N.Z. is very aware of the constraints to supporting charitable causes and although welcoming sponsorships would also enjoy the opportunity to develop mutually beneficial programs with interested businesses.

If you wish to provide a sponsorship or if you deal with animal products or anything connected to animals in any way then contact the Chief Executive Officer and arrange a meeting to discuss how you might benefit your animal related business and at the same time promote animal welfare.

Animal Welfare Institute Of New Zealand

The Animal Welfare Institute of New Zealand (A.W.I.N.Z) is a charitable trust established to promote the welfare of animals.

Promotion of animal welfare through A.W.I.N.Z. includes the protection, control and conservation of animals along with the prevention of ill treatment and the relief of suffering of animals.

A.W.I.N.Z. supports in principle the work undertaken by the R.N.Z.S.P.C.A. and other humane societies. However, A.W.I.N.Z. differs from such organisations in that it is a charitable trust rather than an incorporated society. Being a charitable trust means that the organisation is able to be more effective in obtaining results because of a simpler, modern and direct structure.

A.W.I.N.Z. promotes the view that animals and people can live in harmony with each other and their environments.

What is the foundation philosophy which supports A.W.I.N.Z.?

The philosophy underpinning the work of A.W.I.N.Z. is one of respect for all animals coupled with the belief that an animal has as much right to live in harmony with the environment as people do.

It is the responsibility of people as controllers and manipulators of the environment to ensure that the requirements of animals are not forgotten. Through accommodating these requirements the problems of neglect and ill treatment of animals are addressed.

The state of "Ideal Welfare" is one which A.W.I.N.Z. would like to see promoted and achieved.

"Ideal Welfare" has been defined as "the state of complete mental and physical health where the animal is in harmony with it's environment".
