THIS EMAIL IS SENT ON BEHALF OF DAVID NEUTZE

Grace,

The attendances referred to in the schedule marked "A" annexed to the defendants' cost memorandum are a summary of the attendances extracted from each individual invoice, not a verbatim list. The accompanying schedules attached to the individual invoices detail each attendance separately. Document "E" annexed to the defendants' cost memorandum includes the full list of attendances relevant to your calculation. It appears that you have omitted to include the attendance on 4 September 2012 for $1035 for amending and finalising submissions. Including this attendance, it brings the total attendances to $6,232.50.

We trust that this clarifies the situation.

Regards

Lisa Walsh

David In view of your objection I am initially seeking clarification on your statement at paragraph 9c

I have gone through this time and time again and using excel the total comes to $5197.50 could you please show me your calculations as to how you get to $6232.50 By doing as I have done below showing the date of the item and the value alongside the item charged out

I have had my accountant check this out as well and she agrees with me that it totals $5197.50

Is there something we are not seeing I have based this on the attached Maths is an exact science I cannot see how you can claim that your total of $6232.50 is correct.
