

How the Fraud worked

Council dog control officers were trained to be animal welfare officers, this training was paid for by council through Tom Didovich to Wells

Council dog control became warranted animal welfare officers under the fictional AWINZ run by

They were required to prioritise animal welfare work over council work and while being paid by council and using the rebranded council vehicles & infrastructure

Neil Wells reported to the head of the fictional AWINZ

Reported offences to their manager Wells

Uplifted animals for offences under the animal welfare act

Head of AWINZ decided on prosecution

Barrister for AWINZ prosecutes

Proceeds of prosecution or Diversion banked into bank account administered only by

ANIMAL WELFARE

Institute of New Zealand

